

ILLINOIS CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION AUTHORITY

2003 Annual Report

Rod R. Blagojevich, Governor

To the Governor and the Honorable Members of the General Assembly:

Lori G. Levin

On behalf of the members and staff of the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority, I am pleased to present the Authority's fiscal year 2003 annual report. This report outlines the diverse nature of the agency's work in criminal justice research, grants administration and information systems in Illinois.

The Authority continued to award grants to local and state units of government and community-based, non-profit agencies in FY03. Federal dollars were allocated toward strategies that combat drug and violent crime, fight elder abuse, increase victim services, and provide safety equipment to small law enforcement agencies serving rural communities. State funds supported Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Council initiatives, and Illinois vehicle theft continued its 11-year decline.

In the area of information technology, the Authority continued its support of InfoNet, a state-of-the-art web-based data collection system used by victim service providers across Illinois. InfoNet has gained national recognition for deploying the latest technologies to enhance data collection and reporting efforts, while creating a unique set of victim service data. During the fiscal year, the Authority collaborated with service providers, state coalitions, and other state agencies to maintain the system, and utilize the data to improve the response to victims of crime in Illinois.

The Authority also continued its collaborative efforts with Illinois State Police and other state and local agencies to promote increased integration of justice information systems. A strategic plan was completed in December 2002, identifying key issues for meeting the challenges of justice information sharing in Illinois. Those issues included developing secure and efficient information technology infrastructure that facilitates justice information sharing; serving justice, public safety, and homeland security needs while preventing unauthorized disclosures of information, and allowing appropriate public access; and sufficient and coordinated funding and other resources for integration.

Authority staff initiated and completed a variety of research projects during the fiscal year. A statewide crime victimization survey was initiated in January 2003 with a mailing to more than 6,500 Illinois residents. From these surveys, general victimization trends will be identified and more detailed analysis on incidences of victimization will be conducted. This marks the first time that Illinois has conducted a victimization survey. The Authority also continued its prisoner re-entry research focusing on community re-integration, and completed a study on disproportionate minority representation in the Cook County juvenile justice system.

A variety of criminal justice-related information was posted on the Authority's website – www.icjia.state.il.us – throughout the fiscal year. The Authority continued its focus on increased accessibility to outside agencies and the public by making all publications available online. Visitors downloaded more than 100,700 publications in FY03.

The Authority's mission of improving the administration of criminal justice in Illinois requires collaborative efforts among public and private sectors, as well as a dedicated staff. We look forward to continuing our partnership with the criminal justice community, the legislature, and the general public in fulfilling our mission.

It also develops statistical methodologies and provides statistical advice and interpretation to support criminal justice decision-making and information needs. The unit includes the Office of Public Information.

Office of Public Information

The Office of Public Information manages media relations and external communications for the Authority. It oversees the editing, design, and production of research reports, brochures, a quarterly newsletter, the annual report, and other documents published by the Authority.

Integrated Justice Information System Implementation Board

After gathering information at the Authority's Criminal Justice Planning Assembly in June 2000, staff began to investigate how Illinois agencies can increase the level of integration to improve the accuracy, timeliness, and completeness of justice-related information. In FY03, the Authority continued its collaborative efforts with Illinois State Police and several other state and local agencies to promote increased electronic sharing of justice information in Illinois.

Most state and local information systems supporting justice administration in Illinois were built using technologies that are proprietary and not easily integrated. Because of these disparities, criminal justice information often is fragmented and inaccurate. Efforts have been initiated in recent years to bridge the gaps between these systems.

This fiscal year, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed Executive Order No. 16 (2003) to create the Illinois Integrated Justice Information System (IIJIS) Implementation Board. Established to implement the Illinois Integrated Justice Information System 2003-2004 Strategic Plan, the Board is comprised of 26 members of the justice community. Work of the Board is supported by Authority and Illinois State Police staff.

Besides promoting the integration of justice information systems in Illinois, the Board is charged with:

- Coordinating the development, adoption, and implementation of plans and strategies for sharing justice information.
- Coordinating the development of systems that enhance integration.
- Establishing standards to facilitate the electronic sharing of justice information.
- Promulgating policies that protect individuals' privacy rights related to the sharing of justice information.

The Illinois Integrated Justice Information System 2003-2004 Strategic Plan was completed and presented to the Governor's Office in December 2002. Through the strategic planning process, seven key issues were identified for meeting the challenges of justice information sharing in Illinois:

- A governing body comprised of major stakeholders to oversee and guide the development, implementation, and evaluation of effective electronic justice information sharing initiatives.
- Integrated collecting and sharing of justice data.
- Serving justice, public safety, and homeland security needs while protecting privacy, preventing unauthorized disclosures of information, and allowing appropriate public access.
- Sufficient and coordinated funding and other resources for integration.
- Establishing standards/regulations for data sharing and infrastructure development.
- Secure, reliable, effective, and efficient information technology infrastructure that facilitates justice information sharing.
- Rapid identification through biometric technologies.

Staff recently completed an analysis of criminal justice agency information management surveys, which were sent to a statewide, geographically stratified sample of police departments, sheriffs' departments, state's attorneys' offices, circuit court clerks' offices, and probation departments. The survey results illustrated that very little electronic data exchange is taking place between agencies, even in jurisdictions where justice agencies have developed various automated systems.

Staff also continued to coordinate their efforts with projects taking place in counties throughout Illinois, in other states, and at the national level, especially regarding the development of standards for the electronic exchange of information among justice agencies.

The IIJIS Strategic Plan and a summary report of the survey findings are available on the IIJIS website at www.icjia.state.il.us/ijjis.

Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Council

With the support of the insurance industry, the General Assembly established the Illinois Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Council in 1991 to combat vehicle theft, insurance fraud, and related crimes. The 11-member council is made up of law enforcement and insurance industry officials. Day-to-day work of the Council is carried out by Authority staff.

The Council's responsibilities, as listed in the Illinois Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Act, include: assessing the scope of motor vehicle theft, particularly in those areas of the state with the highest theft rates; allocating funds made available for the purpose of the act; and developing and implementing strategies to combat motor vehicle theft.

The act requires that insurance companies pay into a special trust fund in the state treasury. Insurance companies licensed to write private passenger comprehensive coverage are required to pay $1 into the fund annually for each vehicle insured in the previous year. Collected and administered by the Council, contributions to the fund totalled $6 million in 2003.

The Council allocates grants supporting programs such as special auto theft task forces

Federal and state grants

The Federal & State Grants Unit (FSGU) administers grant programs overseen by the Authority. Authorized under the Authority's power to receive and disburse grant money, this responsibility includes assuring compliance with federal and state regulations.

The Authority began administering federal grants in 1985, following the passage of the Justice Assistance Act and the Victims of Crime Act by Congress. In FY03, 21 staff members administered 525 individual grants under eight federal and two state programs, with more than $48.3 million in disbursements for the fiscal year.

FSGU staff perform a variety of functions in developing, implementing, and monitoring state and local programs while ensuring compliance with numerous federal and state laws and guidelines. These tasks include planning, program development, technical assistance, coordination, and administration.

Anti-Drug Abuse Act

The federal Anti-Drug Abuse Act (ADAA) of 1988, also known as the Edward Byrne Memorial State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance Program, supports government programs that enable the enforcement of Illinois drug laws and help decrease violent crime. Illinois received a federal award of $19.2 million under ADAA in FY03. Of the 278 programs supported with these funds, 47 were statewide.

A minimum of 65.51 percent of the funds received must be passed through to local units of government and the remainder may be spent by state agencies. ADAA guidelines require that matching funds support at least 25 percent of each funded program's total cost. A federal fiscal year's program funds may be spent over a three-year term in accordance with a detailed strategy prepared every three years. With the exception of multi-jurisdictional drug and gang units and victim service initiatives, projects are funded for a maximum of 48 months. For a list of programs funded by ADAA in FY03, see page 19.

Violence Against Women Act

Congress passed the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) in 1994, and again in 2000. Among the provisions of the act is a section authorizing grants to states for programs that would improve the response of the criminal justice system to female victims of sexual assault and domestic violence.

As the agency charged with administering VAWA awards in Illinois, the Authority relies on statistical data, public testimony, and surveys of criminal justice and victim service agencies to ensure the most effective distribution of funds. The Authority also based its S.T.O.P. (Service, Training, Officers, Prosecution) Violence Against Women in Illinois program on this information. The program's objectives include:

- Expansion of services to women who are victims of sexual assault or domestic violence.
- Improved training for law enforcement officers and the establishment of protocols for handling sexual assault and domestic violence reports.
- Improved training for prosecutors and the establishment of protocols for handling sexual assault and domestic violence cases.
- Promotion of multi-disciplinary training programs for criminal justice agencies and health care systems.

The Authority received $4.5 million in VAWA grant funding in FY03. These funds were disbursed during the fiscal year to support 58 programs. The act specifies that states must allocate 25 percent of the funds to law enforcement, 25 percent to prosecution, 30 percent to service providers, and 5 percent to the courts. The remaining 15 percent can be allocated at the state's discretion.

Funds have a two-year life span and must be spent in accordance with a plan submitted to the Violence Against Women Office, U.S. Department of Justice. See page 21 for a list of programs funded through VAWA in FY03.

McGruff the Crime Dog crime prevention program

The Authority continued to promote crime prevention with materials featuring McGruff the Crime Dog in FY03. Materials are provided free of charge to law enforcement agencies and the public. A 30-foot inflatable McGruff balloon also is available for use by law enforcement agencies at crime prevention-related events throughout the year.

Domestic violence protocol/sexual assault guidelines testing and training

In FY03, VAWA program funds were used to continue the implementation, testing, and evaluation of model protocols and guidelines for responding to victims of domestic violence or sexual assault.

Several counties throughout the state were selected to implement the model protocol for handling domestic violence cases by coordinating the responses of law enforcement officers, prosecutors, service providers, and the judiciary. In other regions, model guidelines have been implemented for responding to victims of sexual assault.

This collaborative effort links law enforcement officers, the state's attorney's office, and victim advocates. The goal is to heighten sensitivity while improving evidence collection, initial response, victim interviews, and victim referrals.

Each program has incorporated training sessions into its development to emphasize the spirit of interagency cooperation, while providing participants with the necessary skills to combat domestic violence and sexual assault.

Transitional housing programs

In FY03, VAWA funds also were used to support 10 transitional housing programs. These programs provide services to victims of domestic violence. Many implementing agencies allow victims to stay for up to 12 months. The agencies collaborate with other service providers in the community to ensure that the victims receive literacy services, job training, employment referrals, public assistance and housing.

Victims of Crime Act

The Victims of Crime Act (VOCA), funded with fines paid by offenders convicted of violating federal laws, supports direct services to victims of violent crime. The act requires that priority be given to services for victims of sexual assault, domestic violence, child abuse, and other groups identified by the state as underserved victims of violent crime. Funds may only be used to support direct services to victims of violent crime. Since 1995, states have been allowed to retain up to 5 percent of VOCA funds for administrative purposes.

In FY03 the Authority disbursed more than $13 million in VOCA grant funding to 139 victim service providers. These funds supported victim advocacy programs throughout Illinois, including services provided by members of the Coalition Against Domestic Violence and Coalition Against Sexual Assault. Other grants supported services to survivors of homicide victims, victims of drunk driving crashes, and violent crime victims with special needs, such as those with disabilities and the elderly. See page 23 for a list of programs funded through VOCA in FY03.

Juvenile Accountability Incentive Block Grants Program

The Juvenile Accountability Incentive Block Grants (JAIBG) program was enacted in 1998 to promote greater accountability in the juvenile justice system. Program grants support local efforts to reduce juvenile delinquency and crime, and hold young people, their families, and the juvenile justice system accountable for improving the quality of life in every community. In FY03 the Authority disbursed $5.8 million in JAIBG funds. These funds were used to support 71 juvenile justice programs throughout Illinois.

JAIBG focuses on the development and administration of accountability-based sanctions for juvenile offenders, making funding available to prosecutors to more effectively address drug, gang, and youth violence problems, and establishing information-sharing programs that would provide schools, social service centers, and the criminal justice system the tools needed to make informed decisions regarding the treatment and prevention of young criminals.

A minimum of 75 percent of the funds must be allocated to units of local government. Two-thirds of each unit of local government allocation is based on law enforcement expenditure data, and one-third on the average annual number of Uniform Crime Report Part 1 violent crime arrests for the last three calendar years. A unit of local government must qualify for a minimum of $5,000 in order to be eligible to receive an award. JAIBG guidelines require matching funds of 10 percent.

Program areas include:

- Hiring additional prosecutors so that more cases involving violent juvenile offenders can be prosecuted and backlogs reduced.
- Providing technology, equipment and training to assist prosecutors in identifying and expediting the prosecution of violent juveniles.
- Implementing a drug-testing policy for juveniles within certain categories of the criminal justice system.

JAIBG funds support Blueprints for Violence Prevention programming in Illinois. Thoroughly evaluated on a national level and managed by the University of Colorado's Center for the Study and Prevention of Violence, Blueprints have a high probability of success in dealing with at-risk youth. With input from the state Juvenile Crime Enforcement Coalition, the Authority chose six of 10 possible Blueprints, and eight communities received funding for the programs. Funded Blueprints programs include functional family therapy and multisystemic therapy.

See page 27 for a list of programs funded through JAIBG in FY03.

Local Law Enforcement Block Grants Program

The U.S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Assistance makes funds available to units of local government under the Local Law Enforcement Block Grants (LLEBG) program for purposes of reducing crime and improving public safety.

Illinois received $25.5 million in federal fiscal year 2001 federal funds and $21.6 million in federal fiscal year 2002 federal funds for LLEBG in state fiscal year 2003. The federal government directly awarded $24.4 in FFY01 funding and $20.6 million in the FFY02 funding to units of local government in Illinois according to a formula based on population and violent crime rates.

The governor designated the Authority as the state agency to administer the remaining funds – $1.1 million in FFY01 and $984,000 in FFY02. Local government agencies that did not qualify for a direct federal award were eligible to apply for these funds. Requests for proposals for police and sheriff's departments were issued to provide equipment funding to local law enforcement agencies. The Authority received and processed 450 proposals for FFY01 funding requesting $5.2 million, and nearly 580 proposals for FFY02 funding requesting $6.7 million.

The Authority awarded FFY01 LLEBG funds to 60 jurisdictions. Of those jurisdictions, 56 served communities with populations of less than 25,000. FFY02 funds were awarded to 56 jurisdictions with 52 going to communities with populations of less than 25,000. A minimum of 75 percent of the funds were available for units of local government with populations less than 25,000 and a maximum of 25 percent of the funds were available for those with populations of 25,000 or greater.

To further address the need for equipment evidenced by the large number of applications, the Authority awarded Byrne funds which would otherwise be returned to the Department of Justice to 155 additional departments.

For a list of agencies that received LLEBG funding in FY03, see page 30.

National Criminal History Improvement Program

The National Criminal History Improvement Program (NCHIP) was established in 1995 to promote the accuracy, completeness, and timeliness of criminal history records. Funds are used at the state and local levels to improve the quality of criminal history records, or "rap sheets," which are vital to police, prosecutors, judges, and various government agencies.

The Authority distributed $1 million in federal funds to the Illinois State Police for the state's criminal history improvement program in FY03, and $500,000 to state and local entities for the purchase of automated fingerprint equipment.

Residential Substance Abuse Treatment Program

The Residential Substance Abuse Treatment Program provides funding for treatment programs in a correctional setting and is available to the Illinois Department of Corrections.

In FY03, $1.2 million was distributed to the Illinois Department of Corrections for its Residential Substance Abuse Treatment Program.

Enacted in 1994 with funds appropriated in federal fiscal year 1996, the program provides formula grants to correctional agencies to implement treatment programs for state prisoners housed in residential facilities. The act requires that treatment programs meet the following criteria to be eligible for funding:

- Length of treatment must be six to 12 months.
- Offenders must receive treatment services in a residential setting away from the general inmate population.
- The primary focus of the program must be on the substance abuse problems of the inmate, but the program also must develop inmates' social, cognitive, behavioral, and vocational skills.

In addition, treatment should be limited to offenders who are nearing the end of their incarceration so that they may be released upon completion of the substance abuse program.

Research and analysis

The Authority is responsible for conducting criminal justice research in Illinois, and its Research & Analysis (R&A) Unit handles the majority of the program and policy research conducted. The unit's primary mission is to identify and explore current or emerging criminal and juvenile justice issues that affect the Illinois justice system. The results are then made available to state, county, and local criminal justice decision-makers to assist them in their policy discussions and planning. The R&A unit attempts to make timely and objective information available on key issues by emphasizing short-term projects that address narrow topics, so that important policy, program, and funding decisions are based on data and factual information rather than general perceptions. A number of efforts were under way or concluded in state fiscal year 2003.

Projects to support drug, violent crime, and victim programs

R&A continually collects, analyzes, and disseminates statistical information on the extent and nature of drug and violent crime, and the justice system's response. By working with various agencies responsible for initial data collection, staff have developed what is perhaps the most comprehensive repository of drug- and violent crime-related data in Illinois, as well as a unique and widely recognized expertise in data analysis and interpretation.

R&A encourages and supports community problem assessment and planning by making this data repository available online via CJ DataNet, an interactive database application located on the Authority's website. This application allows visitors to view, graph, and download community crime and arrest data. (See page 38 for more information about CJ DataNet.)

The unit also is responsible for a multifaceted evaluation initiative aimed at assessing the implementation and impact of drug and violent crime control programs in Illinois. Evaluation projects supported with federal funds are carried out in-house and through subcontracts with universities and private research firms.

Presentations

In FY03, presentations were made by R&A staff to a number of organizations and during numerous conferences, including the following:

Full evaluation reports are published on the Authority's website, www.icjia.state.il.us, and on CD-ROM. These reports also are summarized in four-page briefs as part of the Program Evaluation Summary series.

R&A provides a variety of program development support to the Authority's Federal & State Grants Unit. Some of these activities are supported with a grant from the Bureau of Justice Assistance, U.S. Department of Justice. R&A also provides FSGU with research and evaluation support for ADAA, RSAT, VOI-TIS, VOCA, VAWA, JAIBG, and Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Council programs.

Information clearinghouse

The Authority serves as a statewide clearinghouse for statistics and other information about the criminal justice system. In FY03, R&A staff responded to 1,351 requests from people seeking information, an average of 113 calls per month. Most requests for information came from other government agencies (38 percent) and the general public (21 percent). Other requests came from private agencies (17 percent), researchers (10 percent), students (9 percent), media representatives (3 percent), prison inmates (2 percent), and legislators (less than 1 percent).

Thirty percent of the requests originated in Chicago. Thirty-eight percent originated in other parts of the state. All other requests for information were received from outside Illinois. Eighty-two percent of all requests were completed in two days or less.

The Authority distributed 31,489 Authority publications in FY03. Additionally, visitors to the Authority's website downloaded 100,708 publications. Staff received 459 e-mail requests and 209 online orders for these publications during the fiscal year. The CJ Dispatch automatically notifies registered users via e-mail twice monthly of the site's newest information. The e-mail contains direct links to new content. By the end of FY03, 1,284 users had subscribed to the CJ Dispatch, an increase of 33 percent from FY02.

Balanced and Restorative Justice Summit

The Authority began planning the Balanced and Restorative Justice Summit set for September 2003. The summit would join a variety of professionals to develop a strategy for implementing balanced and restorative justice in Illinois, consistent with the Juvenile Court Act reforms.

According to the purpose clause of the Juvenile Court Act, the state is to create a juvenile justice system capable of dealing with the problem of juvenile delinquency, a system that will protect the community, impose accountability for violations of law and equip juvenile offenders with competencies to live responsibly and productively. Balanced and restorative justice, or BARJ, is comprised of three main principles: public safety, accountability, and competency development.

Study of detention screening instruments and detainment practices in Illinois

The Authority received a grant from the Justice Research and Statistics Association for a study of the validity, reliability, and equity of scoreable screening instruments being used in Illinois in connection with juvenile detention decisions. The project involves collaboration with the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, the Illinois Juvenile Justice Commission, local probation departments, and others. In addition to learning more about detention screening and detainment practices across Illinois' 102 counties, the project seeks to determine whether practitioners' knowledge about juveniles' gender, race, or ethnicity impacts detention decisions despite the use of scoreable screening instruments. Detailed surveys of probation department and detention center administrators are being conducted in each county. The final report will be available in spring 2004.

Illinois Substance Abuse Monitoring Network

The Authority continues its collaboration with the Department of Human Services' Office on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse through the Illinois Substance Abuse Monitoring Network. This group functions as a special workgroup to facilitate the exchange and analysis of information regarding the nature and extent of drug use, drug abuse, and drug markets in Illinois. The inaugural meeting of the group convened at the Authority in December 2002. The U.S. Department of Justice, National Drug Intelligence Center present an overview of drug issues facing the region. The group will hold future meetings to discuss specific aspects of the drug problem in Illinois.

Statewide Crime Victimization Survey

Growing out of recommendations in the State Criminal Justice Plan, staff initiated a state crime victimization survey modeled on the U.S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Statistics' Crime Victimization Survey, and similar efforts in other states. Based on a sample from the Secretary of State's Office, the survey was launched in January 2003 with a mailing to more than 6,500 Illinois residents. A report on findings regarding general trends in victimization will be generated, and more detailed analysis on the incidence of victimization will be conducted. This marks the first time that Illinois has conducted a victimization survey.

Profiles of girls committed to the IDOC Youth Centers

The Authority, in collaboration with the Illinois Department of Corrections (IDOC), completed an in-depth examination of the backgrounds, needs, and services received by female delinquents that have been committed to IDOC. Supported with a grant from the Justice Research and Statistics Association, the project developed research, programming, and policy recommendations for the implementation of gender-specific programming for female delinquents. The project entailed examining already existing information collected by IDOC on each female inmate. These data were used to develop an in-depth profile of girls residing in IDOC. In addition, more detailed and exploratory data were collected through focus groups of IDOC staff members regarding the barriers and successes to working with girls, girls' unique needs, and the types of services that may help girls return successfully to their communities. Finally, a detailed inventory of the programs offered through IDOC and the characteristics of the girls receiving these programs, in combination with the needs assessment, will assist in identifying service gaps. The final report of the project was published in December 2003.

Prisoner re-entry research

In FY03, the Authority continued to examine how individuals released from IDOC are reintegrated back into the community. They include:

Reintegration of gang offenders in the community

In collaboration with the DePaul University Department of Sociology, IDOC, and the Attorney General's Gang Crime Prevention Center, a small-scale pilot study of the reintegration process was initiated. The study will be largely qualitative, examining how gang and non-gang offenders reintegrate into their communities of origin.

Recidivism of gang versus non-gang members released from Illinois prisons

The Authority completed research based on a grant received from the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention through the National Youth Gang Center to study the recidivism of gang and non-gang members released from Illinois prisons.

Returning Home Report

In partnership with The Urban Institute, a study was completed on pre-release policies and practices in IDOC with the goal of advising the Authority on the use of federal grant funds to reduce prisoner recidivism.

Illinois Going Home Project

A large-scale evaluation by the University of Chicago was initiated focusing on the Illinois Going Home Program. This major offender re-entry program is overseen by IDOC and provides intensive services and support for offenders released from prison into Chicago's North Lawndale community.

Disproportionate minority representation in the Cook County juvenile justice system

Pursuant to a grant from the Illinois Department of Human Services through the Illinois Juvenile Justice Commission, the Authority completed a study of disproportionate minority representation among juveniles in the Cook County juvenile justice system. Staff collected and analyzed data from various juvenile justice system contact points. Case-level data was also collected on a sample of juveniles to measure the possible influence of specific factors on decisions made as the juveniles are processed through the system.

This research can help the commission plan interventions to target this issue. The project concluded with final reports being published in April 2003.

Evaluation of reforms to the Juvenile Court Act

With funding from the Illinois Juvenile Justice Commission, the Authority completed a complex, multi-level implementation evaluation of changes to the state's Juvenile Court Act. The study involved an investigation of the processes by which individuals and agencies impacted by the act's legislative changes understand the major statutory provisions and the extent to which local implementation efforts are consistent across Illinois. The project utilized three case studies to investigate how restorative justice programming, formal and informal station adjustments, and extended jurisdiction juvenile proceedings in the Juvenile Court Act are implemented, and how these changes affect juveniles, juvenile justice professionals, and victims of juvenile crime. Several publications of this research are available.

Intimate partner violence research

The Chicago Women's Health Risk Study (CWHRS) project is a collaboration of Chicago medical, public health, and criminal justice agencies, and domestic violence experts to identify factors that indicate a significant danger of life-threatening injury or death in situations of intimate partner violence.

By comparing data on abused women with similar data on people who have been killed by an intimate partner, the project helps agencies develop collaborative ways to identify and respond to potentially life-threatening intimate violence situations.

The CWHRS produced important results on issues that have never before been analyzed in a systematic way. This research continues to provide vital information to police officers, clinical staff, and other decision-makers in the field, identifying early warning signs to help these practitioners intervene more effectively on behalf of the victims. In addition, another study used CWHRS results to look at the effects of collective efficacy and community capacity on whether abused women continued to experience violence.

The Chicago Women's Health Risk Project was supported with grants from the National Institute of Justice, the Authority, and other agencies. The risk factors identified by the study have been distributed to service and health care providers, as well as law enforcement officers. The CWHRS collaboration continues to analyze and publish results in a variety of formats, aimed at practitioners and others who can make a difference in women's lives.

Gun offender research

With a grant from the U.S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Statistics and in cooperation with the Illinois State Police's Bureau of Identification, staff completed a study of individuals arrested for gun-related crimes in Illinois.

Drug enforcement research

With a grant from the U.S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Assistance, the Authority and Loyola University Chicago completed a multi-year study comparing arrests made by multi-jurisdictional drug enforcement units to arrests made by local police departments. The project involved analyses of criminal history records, program data, observations, case files, surveys, and interviews. Detailed statistical profiles of each multi-jurisdictional drug task force were completed, and the research also helped the Authority direct federal grant funds toward enforcement and prosecution efforts.

Homicide research

The Authority's continuing research on lethal violence serves as a foundation for developing effective intervention strategies. The cornerstone of this effort is the Chicago Homicide Dataset, one of the largest and most detailed ever collected in the U.S. In collaboration with the Chicago Police Department, the dataset contains information on every homicide reported in Chicago between 1965 and 1996. The dataset includes more than 20,000 homicides, with more than 200 variables for each case. The data, with individual identifiers removed, are archived in the National Archives of Criminal Justice Data, and are extensively used by policy planners and analysts from Illinois and other states. Staff continued its effort to update this information with data for years through 2001. Staff is partnering with several external researchers on specialized studies of these data, including arson homicide and several studies of homicides of young children.

Criminal history records research

The Authority established the Criminal History Records Audit Center in 1993 to improve the state's criminal history record information system (CHRI) and ensure compliance with federal mandates for criminal history records. Records are used by criminal justice agencies throughout Illinois to identify and prosecute repeat offenders, as well as for research, employment, and professional licensing purposes. The quality of the records is examined through periodic audits of the computerized criminal history database maintained by the Illinois State Police (ISP).

The 2003 CHRI Audit Report was completed during FY03. The audit examined CHRI data from 1996 through 1998 by comparing original event documentation against corresponding database entries. The reported findings indicate that the quality of CHRI record accuracy, completeness and timeliness has improved statewide, from the 1994 levels. The accuracy of arrest information increased to 92 percent; 59 percent of all cases examined were complete from arrest event through final disposition; and, close to three quarters of mailed information was posted to the state database within prescribed time frames. The full audit report and the companion Research Bulletin are available online.

During FY03 audit staff also began collecting information on electronic reporting of CHRI. Many Illinois criminal justice agencies utilize livescan or other computer based technology to report criminal justice information. These devices allow criminal justice agencies to more efficiently collect, store, and share information.

In collaboration with ISP, R&A staff also helped facilitate research utilizing criminal history records on behalf of several third-party researchers.

Information systems

The Authority's Information Systems Unit (ISU) is charged with designing, developing, and operating advanced technology that can be used to help Illinois public safety agencies collect and share information. Affordable information systems have been created by ISU to strengthen communication between agencies and help these agencies coordinate their efforts to reduce crime. Without the Authority's support, many smaller agencies could not afford the information systems on which they now rely.

During FY03 ISU provided technical support to agencies throughout Illinois that use information systems developed by the Authority, including the Police Information Management System (PIMS), PIMSNet, Area-wide Law Enforcement Radio Terminal System (ALERTS), and Automated Law Enforcement Communications System (ALECS). More than 300 Illinois police agencies participate in and are served by these systems.

Mobile data systems

ALERTS is an in-car computer terminal system for police. The system provides instant access to information in situations where each second counts. During traffic stops, officers can get information about a car and its owner in a matter of seconds on their ALERTS terminals. Getting the same information from a police dispatcher over a two-way radio can take several minutes. In addition to promoting officer safety, ALERTS has proven effective at helping police recover stolen vehicles and arrest individuals wanted for crimes in Illinois and throughout the country.

Implemented for 20 agencies in 1989, ALERTS is the Authority's largest information systems project. A cooperative effort of local law enforcement agencies and the Authority, ALERTS also is one of the largest wireless public safety networks in the U.S.

The Authority develops, operates, and maintains the central computer hardware and telecommunications equipment for ALERTS, which served 300 agencies in FY03. Agencies obtain their own in-car terminals and pay the Authority a fee for system operation and maintenance.

nance. This arrangement allows individual agencies to keep their costs down while gaining access to a reliable, cost-effective system.

In recent years, an enhanced messaging feature was implemented to work between ALERTS and the Illinois Wireless Information Network (I-WIN). The Authority also began researching new wireless local area network technologies that will provide ALERTS users with wireless transmission of field-based reports, network file transfers, e-mail, and images. In FY03, the Authority began replacing outdated hardware and software used to run ALERTS. The new system will provide the same features, while allowing additional enhancements and transactions.

For a list of agencies using ALERTS in FY03, see page 39.

Police records management systems

The first Police Information Management System (PIMS) module was installed in 1981 at the Joliet Police Department by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission's Office of Criminal Justice Information Systems. PIMS continues to be the only records management system of its kind in Illinois – providing shared information to more than 50 law enforcement agencies. In FY03, the Authority purchased and released a new version of PIMS called PIMSNet. PIMSNet allows incident and case management and includes additional basic records modules such as animal control, animal licensing, booking and holding, citations, field interviews, and warrants. See page 37 for a list of PIMS agencies.

Communication support systems

The Automated Law Enforcement Communications System (ALECS) provides a gateway system to participating law enforcement agencies that allows a connection to the Law Enforcement Agencies Data System (LEADS) and the Authority's ALERTS network. In addition, ALECS provides 911 and unit status displays, and other software for police communication centers that do not have computer-aided dispatch systems.

InfoNet data collection system

InfoNet is a state-of-the-art web-based data collection system used by victim service providers across Illinois. Using a web-browser, remote users access a centralized database maintained at the Authority. Data is transmitted between users and the Authority database via a virtual private network that utilizes data encryption to securely transfer data over the Internet. The Authority worked closely with the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence and the Illinois Coalition Against Sexual Assault to develop the system.

Ninety-six domestic violence and sexual assault programs access InfoNet from more than 140 sites. In FY03, the project grew to include partnerships with the Illinois Department of Human Services (DHS) and the Children's Advocacy Centers of Illinois. The Authority partnered with DHS to make InfoNet the official data collection and reporting tool for DHS-funded domestic violence service providers. The Authority also finalized data system requirements for children's advocacy centers.

InfoNet has gained national recognition for deploying the latest technologies to enhance data collection and reporting efforts, while creating a unique set of victim service data. The Authority continues to work with service providers, state coalitions, and other state agencies and funders to maintain this system and to utilize the data to inform and improve the response to victims of crime in Illinois.

Authority website: www.icjia.state.il.us

The Authority's award-winning website is a frequent destination of criminal justice professionals, educators, and members of the public. In addition to providing easy access to the latest criminal justice information, the site opens the door to the Authority's three major areas of operation: research, information systems, and federal and state grants.

A wide variety of criminal justice related information is continually posted and archived. Government agencies or members of the general public are able to download any of our publications or to request a free CD-ROM.

The site received 112,732 unique visitors in FY03, and attracted an average of about 500 users per day.

CJ DataNet

A popular feature of the Authority's website is the CJ DataNet, a web-based database application which allows website users to research broad issues facing the criminal justice system or simply examine crime trends in a specific Illinois city, county, or regional area. Currently, criminal offense and arrest data from the Illinois State Police uniform crime reporting program are available from 1983 through 2001 on each Illinois county. Users are able to display data in a variety of graphs and tables, and to download data into a spreadsheet for further analysis.
