

Conducting Death Investigations

Developed as a comprehensive, 3-day training, this course provides law enforcement investigators with guidelines and best practices for conducting death investigations in a thorough, detailed, and effective manner.

The program covers a wide range of topics to include: scene security; utilizing an investigative checklist; the proper handling and review of evidence; hands-on application of Infra Red and blue star; and key procedures and processes related to suspicious deaths including homicides.

The comprehensive scope of the training also addresses issues and best practices related to identifying witnesses and suspects, effectively working with the Medical Examiner or Coroner's Office and prosecutors, and crucial actions within the first 48 hours of a death investigation.

Ideally suited for today's law enforcement professionals, the course also explores timely topics such as evaluation of evidence (Fingerprints, DNA, Autopsy, Trace, Suspect and Victim's Clothing, Firearm, Wound Identification, Toxicology, etc.), and strategies for operating a crime scene unit on a shoestring budget.
